

HARRY HARRISON AND DAVID BRIN

GLASGOW'S CENTRAL HOTEL
26th-29th September '86

After ALBACON there came Hitchercon... then after Albacon II came Invention... and now after Albacon III we are proud to present (corny isn't it) XIICON (pronounced SCIcon as in science fiction or PSYcon as in psycho).

Harry Harrison is Guest of Honour, author of the Stainless Steel Rat series and Deathworld trilogy. He is a convention veteran and in the past has proved to be a very entertaining guest.

We also have David Brin, author of "Startide Rising" and "The Practice Effect". His latest book, "The Postman", is currently being made into a film.

As with Invention in '83, our committee consists of relative newcomers under the expert (?) guidance of the Albacon 84/85/II/III mob... err team, who together will produce a convention containing some new ideas (we hope).

So join in the four days of fabulous fun (ugh) once again in the Central Hotel. Just send lots of money..or just £9 to the address below.
